Himlung Expedition

Tour Overview

Taking to you the charming peak climbing over 7000meters expedition that is Mt. Himlung which is situated on the border with Tibet, sandwiched between the two eight-thousand meters Annapurna and Manaslu Himalayas. Join us to climb The Himlung Himal 7126m, a technically easy and ideal entry-seven thousand meters mountain. It was released by the Nepalese government only in 1992. Besides Himlung here fascinate the two neighbor-Seven thousand Nemjung 7140 m and 7096 m Himjung.

The basic requirement is a solid condition, team spirit, and perfect equipment. The walk takes place on a section of the classic Annapurna circuit trek and then turns into the lonely and original Naar Phu Khola(river) valley. You will pass through the Tibetan villages, countless Buddhist mani walls, and steadily to height. With each step up the landscape becomes alpine, with yak bells, fluttering prayer flags, and the wild giant mountains fascinating you in a good mood. Set the base camp at 4920m, 3 high camps (camp I at 5400m, camp II at 6050 m, and camp III at 6300 m) on a very beautiful route to the summit, with difficult sections secured with fixed ropes.

Here, especially the technically comparatively not a difficult normal route for less extreme mountaineers has a very attractive 7000m summit target with relatively high chances of success! The expedition is accompanied by experienced Climbing guides and at Nepalese Sherpas, porters for the camp are available. From the summit, you can enjoy a superb 360 ° view, an experience that will be remembered long life. This successful expedition may open your next eight-thousand meters peak expeditions in the Himalayas.
